Water: Most people who live in the country know what a grey water system is. It is essentially a second use of most of your water, filtered, at the single source. All new construction should be required to put in grey water systems.

We should have cisterns to collect and store rain water.

We should also stop subsidizing water use. ( All subsidies, at some point, always become a problem. That will eliminate the "water police" and unpolicable ordinances.

(We can also start getting a coop together to build a desalinization plant in the gulf for the far future.)

Thanks for listening. (You are the first person who has mentioned reasonable solutions to a NEAR future problem.)
